EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

A country's demographic dividend has primarily been its youth. Pakistan has one of the world's largest proportions of young people, with 33.46 percent of the population aged 16 to 24. Over the last decade, a paradigm shift in global dynamics has accelerated global technological acceleration and rapid industrialization, resulting in a substantial scope for skill-building in employable domains to support the corresponding requirement for clever and technically proficient human capital. To effectively capitalize on this opportunity, Pakistan's youth must be prepared with marketable skills that will contribute in the growth of the country in a variety of ways.

The directive of the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Youth Development Program [BBSYDP], which was launched by the Government of Sindh in 2008, has been passed on to the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board [BBSHRDB] as a matter of legislative commitment to preserve and safeguard public interest. The Sindh Act of Assembly constituted the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board [BBSHRDB] in 2013 as a public service project to enhance Sindh's human resource by training young people with employable skill sets that will increase their employability.

The analysis under consideration was carried out at Livestock wing under Livestock & Fisheries Department, with its PMU at Hyderabad Sindh. The Sindh province's livestock sector is being served by the Livestock and Fisheries Department working under Government of Sindh. Livestock is becoming an increasingly important part of the national economy, contributing more than all other agricultural crops combined. Livestock & Fisheries Department strives to ensure growth and development of livestock sector in the province thus contributing to national food security, economic uplift, rural development, poverty alleviation, employment generation and foreign exchange earnings. Support livestock development in a policy environment that allows farmers to reap the benefits of livestock farming by appropriately allocating public funds to core public goods and attracting private capital and initiative to the sector for poverty reduction, food security, and the generation of exportable surpluses."

The consultant obtained information from approximately 2,000+ students in a representative sample of training programmes across all programme components. The study's study suggests that the programme was instrumental in enabling and supporting disadvantaged and underprivileged youth. Field visits were also used to check the students, and none of the youths reached during the survey were discovered to be false. The funds/stipend were distributed in accordance with regular procedures during the trainings.

Students' responses to various aspects of the training programme indicate that they are quite pleased with it. According to the comments, students saw the training programme as a massive help in their academic careers. Across all training centers, more than 90% of students thought the training selection, instructors, and selection criteria were fair and unambiguous.

1. INTRODUCTION

Employment is a wide concept that encompasses both formal and informal work settings. To encourage self-employment, entrepreneurship training is frequently included throughout TVET curriculum. This has to do with occupational and vocational activity's social reproduction and transformation. Rapid technological change needs employees' knowledge and experience to be updated on a frequent basis. Unlike in the past, when a job might be retained for a lifetime, today it is typical to change jobs multiple times. TVET facilitates mobility in two ways. One is to have a diverse set of technical skills and abilities that may be applied to a variety of vocations. The second is to provide professionals with continuous vocational training.

In acknowledgement of this reality, a youth skills development training project was initiated by Livestock Department working under Government of Sindh. The Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board [BBSHRDB], Government of Sindh, supported the project, which included the training of 2,261 graduated trainees.

1.1. Objectives of the assignment

2.METHODOLOGY

Every study adheres to a specific research methodology in order to achieve a set of objectives in order to test the hypothesis and answer the research questions. The quality of data collected from respondents is largely indicative of the respondents, and the study technique is responsible for the conclusion of the findings. The technique involves data collection methods, key metrics to investigate, population, sample size, and developing relevant analytical tests, as well as other data processing tools and outcome interpretation. The following section summarizes the methodologies used in the current study.

2.1. Population and Sample Size

Participants in the process assessment report were master trainers, assistant trainers, and trainees. All of these stakeholders' input was critical for the current study because they were personally involved and engaged in the project. For each study, determining the sample size is an important part of the research design.

2.2. Reliability of Data

Prior to data collection, the required sample size would have to be determined to achieve data reliability. The current study was a survey in nature, necessitating frequency calculations and the arithmetic mean of their recent training project experience. Because the data size was insufficient, the entire population (100 percent sample) was opted for data collection. Because the total population was tested rather than sampling, data dependability was not an area of concern.

The response rate is shown in the grid below,

Stakeholder	Population	Responses Obtained	Response percentage
Master Trainers	40	40	100%
Assistant Trainers	11	11	100%
Trainees	2,261	2,261	100%
Total	2,312	2,312	100%

2.3. Methodology for statistical modelling and analysis

The data collection instruments used in this study were structured questionnaires and semi-structured interviews. The questionnaire was used to collect data in the quantitative phase, while the interview schedule was implemented in the qualitative phase. The questionnaire schedule was developed in response to concerns raised during the literature review of related data that were pertinent to the current investigation. The interview schedule was devised in response to the main issues raised by the questionnaire results. The quantitative survey results were evaluated using Microsoft Excel. The frequency, as well as the mean and standard deviation, were computed using the software. The qualitative data was analyzed thematically. The internal consistency of questionnaires was determined using the 'Cronbach Alpha'.

3.OBJECTIVE-WISE VALIDATION

3.1. Assessment of Trainers and Assistant Trainers

In the first part of the evaluation, the visiting team met with each of program's master trainers and assistant trainers individually. The master trainers and assistant trainers were found to be well-versed in their fields and capable of delivering to the trainees. The trainees were asked if they were satisfied with their respective trainers and assistant trainers in the second step. The students were pleasantly surprised by the training faculty and expressed a desire to one day achieve their current level of knowledge.

The total numbers in the light of the survey were 48 master and assistant trainers, which is in accordance with the mandate mentioned in the MoU. The master trainers and assistant trainers were found to be highly qualified and tremendously competent in their specialties.

3.2. Assessment of curriculum taught

Curriculum refers to the courses and academic topics taught in an institution or in a specific course or programme. Curriculum is a term that is commonly used in reference books to describe the courses given by an institution, although it is also used in this wide sense at facilities. Depending on how broadly instructors interpret the term, curriculum usually refers to the knowledge and skills that trainees are expected to acquire, which includes the learning expectations or learning goals they are expected to achieve, the units and lessons that trainers teach, and the assignments and projects that trainees are given. A curriculum is a set of basic learning principles, lessons, assignments, and resources that are used to prepare and teach a given course. The content provided as part of this programme has been verified to be up to date and meets current teaching requirements. The contents are comprehensive, yet they are organised in such a way that trainees may easily comprehend the principles in their everyday lives. The trainers were confident in their ability to achieve a solid balance of theory and practice. This observation was shared by the majority of the trainees. The current curriculum is recognized by Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board (BBSHRRDB). The courses and their content were very well received by the visiting consultants. The Annex section contains contents list from all the manual/books.

3.3. Assessment of training delivery

The consultant's task was to ensure that the training duration, enrolment, and number of graduates were accurate, as well as that training certificates were delivered on schedule. The following queries were constructed to validate the aforementioned domains.

Lesson Plan(s): Master and assistant trainers believed they had sufficiently trained and covered the established lesson plans when delivering instruction. Based on their opinions, the management and the majority of the trainees marked these facts as true.

Assessment of Trainees: The master and assistant trainers evaluated the trainees based on predefined assessment criteria, as well as the combined opinions of management, master and assistant trainers, and trainees. The master and assistant trainers followed the evaluation plan provided by the programme when preparing question papers/assessment content.

Invitational Industry and Academic Lectures: The arrangement of lectures by renowned guest speakers from industry and academia was seen by the management and trainers, and the majority of the trainees agreed with their claim.

3.4. Assessment of training completion

The consultant was in responsibility of verifying the training term, enrollment, and number of graduates, as well as ensuring that training certificates were given on time. To validate the specified domains, the following queries were constructed.

Enrolments and Graduates: The authorities announced the enrolment of 2,261 candidates from two batches for training in their respective sectors, among them 2,261 graduated after completing their course.

Training Duration: According to the Management, trainers, and trainees, the programme had provided training for the requisite 1 and two (depending upon the nature of the course) months by the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board (BBSHRRDB).

Attendance: It was also confirmed that the PMU implemented the predetermined attendance criteria during the training and that appropriate attendance records were kept.

Examination: Due to the efforts of management and trainers, exams were held as scheduled. A substantial majority of the trainees concurred with this.

Certificate Distribution: All of the graduates received their certificates in a timely manner. The statement was taken from the proper data source.

3.5. Assessment of validation of certification

The coordinator, master and assistant trainers, and trainees validated the affiliation of the programme with the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board (BBSHRRDB).

3.6. Validation of Employment

Job creation is the most key component of any skill development programme. The following is a summary of the graduate trainees' current employment status.

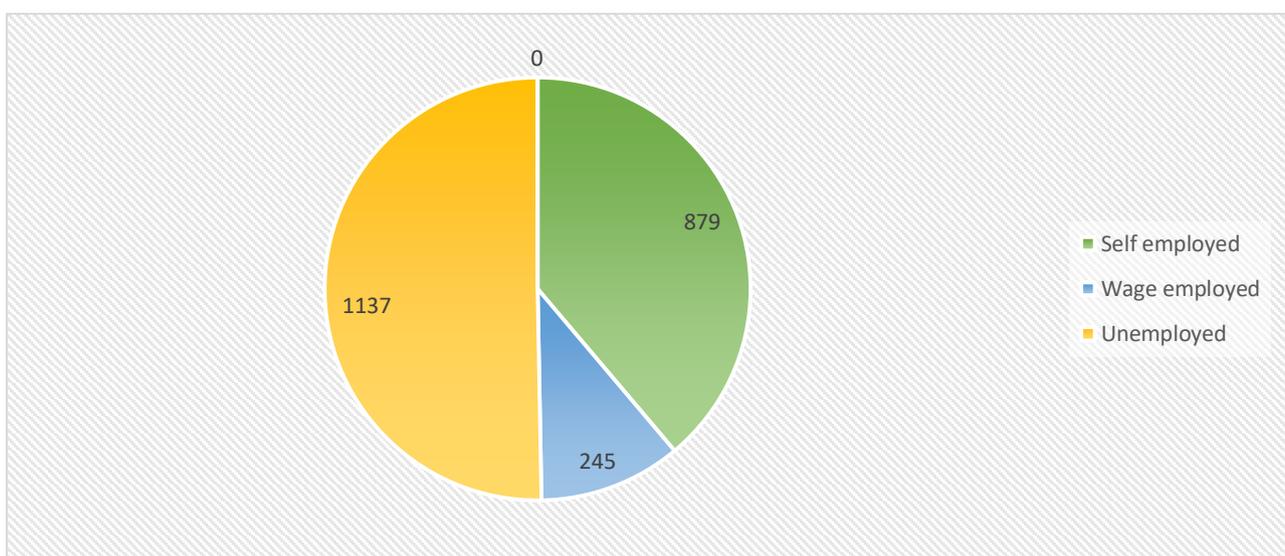

Support for graduated trainee's employment: The programme aided trainees in locating relevant postings, according to the officials, and the vast majority of trainees corroborated this. The programme aided trainees with job applications and job interview training, according to the officials, which a great percentage of trainees concur with.

Current employment status of graduated trainees: The employment status of the recently graduated trainees is indeed satisfactory. 879 out of total 2,261 (38.87%) graduated trainees are self-employed. This is the very satisfying statistic that the research team has extracted. 245 out of 2,261 graduated trainees are employed on part time basis (10.80%). On the other hand, 1,137 graduated trainees are still unemployed but are in active pursuit of suitable opportunities.

The data is summarized in the following table,

Table: Trainees Employment Status

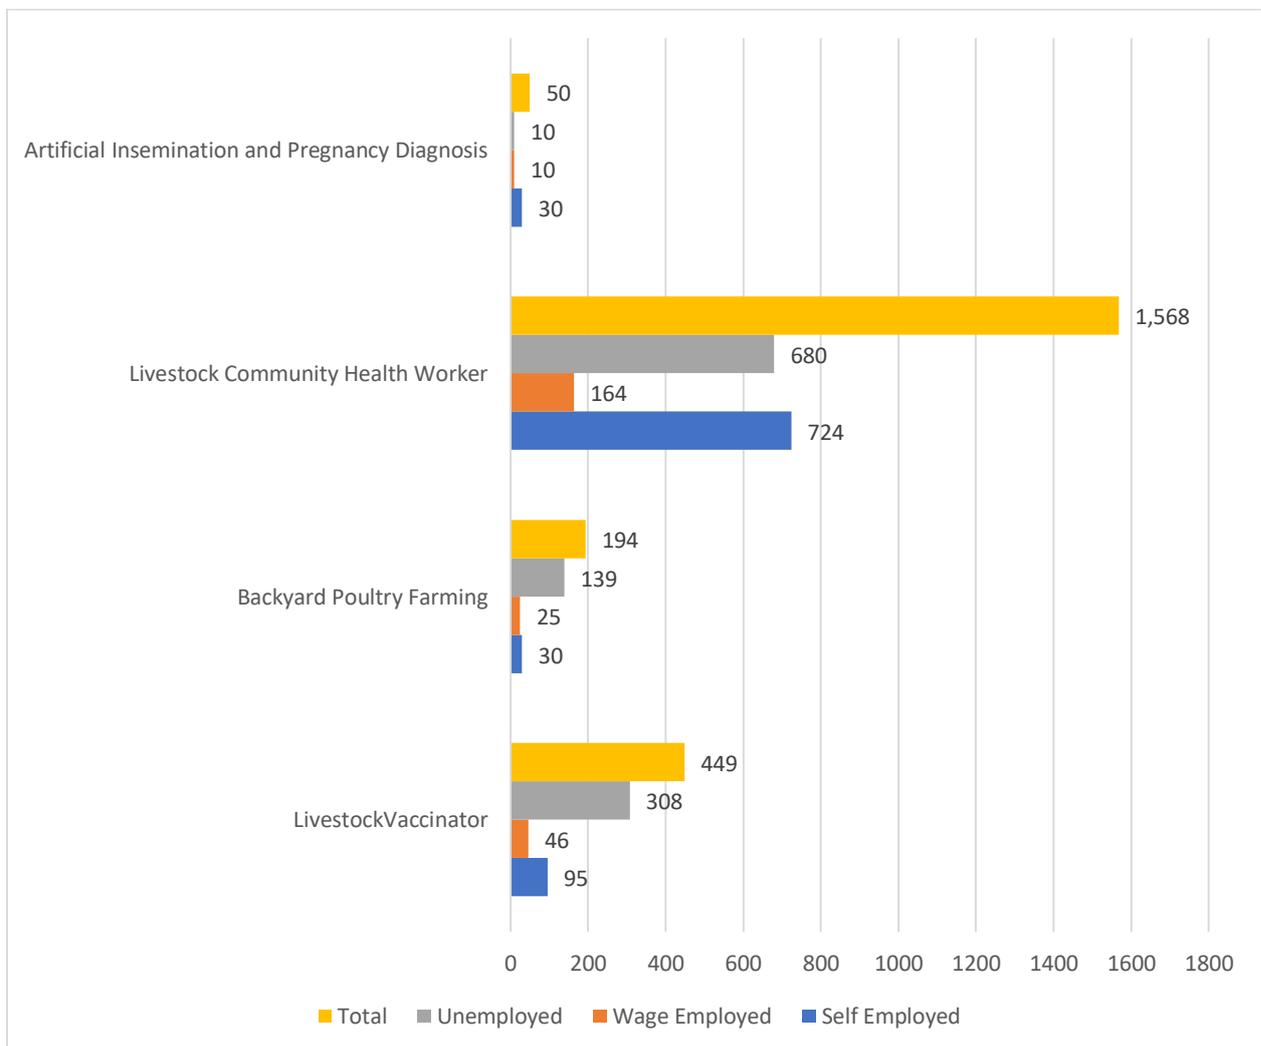

S. No.	Status	No. of Trainees	Percentage
1	Self employed	879	38.87%
2	Wage employed	245	10.80%
3	Unemployed	1,137	50.30%
Total		2,261	100%

The following table shows the distribution of graduate trainees' job status by trade.

S. No.	Trade	Self Employed	Wage Employed	Unemploy ed	Total
1	Livestock Vaccinator	95	46	308	449
2	Backyard Poultry Farming	30	25	139	194
3	Livestock Community Health Worker	724	164	680	1,568
4	Artificial Insemination and Pregnancy Diagnosis	30	10	10	50
Total		879	245	1,137	2,261

The following graph depicts the employment situation of all the graduated trainees;

3.7. Correlation Analysis

The results of the correlation analysis demonstrated that the master and assistant trainers' qualifications and experience, the quality of the curriculum, the quality of training delivery, training completion, and institutional support for the trainees all had significant correlation. There was a direct significant correlation between 'Quality of Curriculum' and 'Quality of Training Delivery,' implying that higher curriculum quality was linked to higher training delivery quality. There was a direct significant correlation between 'Quality of Curriculum' and 'Training Completion,' suggesting that higher curriculum quality was closely correlated to effective training completion on time. There was a direct significant correlation between 'Quality of Training Delivery' and 'Training Completion,' demonstrating that higher-level curriculum quality was related to effective training delivery completion. Significantly, 'Institutional Support' was associated with 'Training Delivery Quality' and 'Training Completion.'

4. VALIDATIONS

To confirm all of the findings, the triangulation method was applied, which included comparing the results obtained from the responses of management, trainers, and trainees. As a result, it is reasonable to state that all of the program's fundamental requirements have been met. Based on the following validation points, the project was assessed to have met its objectives adequately.

4.1. Validation of Trainers

- All of the master and assistant trainers were confirmed to be highly competent in their respective subjects.
- The academic/professional level of the trainers was considered in conjunction with the training programme. The trainers were found to be highly educated/capable in their respective domains.
- It can be determined that instructors were appointed on merit based, it was concluded on the perspective of educations, perceptions, and feedback of the stakeholders.
- The trainees were provided access to qualified instructors in their chosen fields.
- The instructors were very well-received by the graduate trainees.

4.2. Validation of curriculum

- Instructors were provided curriculums to follow through with during the training.
- The curriculum and the trades are both market-oriented. As a result, the employment rate of graduate trainees has increased significantly.
- Master and assistant trainers and trainees generally agree that the programme and curriculum do not hinder the effectiveness, but there is always room for improvement.
- Due the master and assistant trainer's substantial knowledge, there was a general balance between the theoretical and practical realms.

4.3. Validation of Training Delivery

- Master and assistant trainer's designed and implemented lesson plans in accordance with the syllabus, in accordance with the MoU.
- The evaluation procedure followed the stipulated guidelines and was carried out in accordance with the syllabus.
- During the course, guest speakers from the industry and academia gave lectures and shared a great deal of information with the trainees.

4.4. Validation of Training Completion

- Trainees were enrolled in accordance with the Memorandum of Understanding, and they all completed their training within the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research and Development Board's timeframe (BBSHRRDB).
- The attendance record is kept up to date on a regular basis. Furthermore, in compliance with the MoU, examinations were held on schedule.
- Nearly all of the trainees obtained their certificates within a reasonable amount of time.

4.5. Validation of Certification

- The certification is affiliated with the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Human Resource Research & Development Board (BBSHRRDB).

4.6. Validation of Employment

- The trainees are supported in seeking for job openings, completing application processes, and preparing for interviews as part of the programme.
- • As a result, many graduate trainees are currently employed and meet the standards for validation.

4.7. Team Members assigned for Validation

S. No.	Name	Designation
1	Dr. Ali Zaidi	Consultant/Evaluation Expert

5. SUGGESTIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

One of the Government of Sindh's main programmes is the Benazir Bhutto Shaheed Research & Development Board [BBSHRRDB]. To assess its effectiveness, the number of trainees who have benefited from the programme. Some of the most important aspects and recommendations of the programme are as follows:

- None of the trainees were proven to be fictional through telephonic contact or a physical interview. This demonstrates that the real and actual trainees acquired the necessary training.
- In terms of both quality and quantity, stakeholders must be strengthened. The slightest oversight by the administration could cause the underprivileged student to be refused. With the support of the skilled staff, the programme may be enhanced more effectively.
- The training programme, with the aim of improving its standardization and benefit, has some challenges. As the programme continues to evolve, it is a tough proposition to get all stakeholders on the same page. Standardization of the training time, payment amounts and the comprehension of SOPs should be maintained.
- Need-based scholarship success stories should be featured in local periodicals, possibly as a supplement, so that the scholarship is visible to the majority of trainees and their families.
- There must be a system in place to keep those trainees informed who are unable to apply for scholarships due to a lack of required documents.
- The programme should take inspiration from similar programme's that have already been implemented in the TVET sector, such as the Japanese need-based programme, the French need-based programme, and the USAID need-based programme. Despite the fact that these programmes' were hybrid in nature, emphasizing both need and merit. However, after thoughtful consideration, these systems may be altered to create a better process.
- The program's dissemination would have to be more thorough and widespread; it would be inadvisable if the scholarship was only announced to already admitted trainees; it is critical to include trainees who, for whatever reason, are unable to take admission and have no source of information about the scholarship. Print media, electronic media, social media, and SMS marketing are some of the possibilities for increased exposure that should be sought.

- The training scholarship numbers for each district do not reflect parity. Trainees from remote communities may have greater financial needs, and their scholarship allocation should not be based exclusively on the district/union council's population.

6. LIMITATIONS AND CHALLENGES

While conducting this study, the consultants faced a few limitations. Some of these limitations are as following;

- The government implemented smart and micro lockdowns in select regions to prevent the COVID-19 pandemic, making it more difficult to assemble trainees for physical interviews/verification.
- Because a few trainees were unwell with the COVID virus, they were interviewed over the phone.

Despite these limitations, it is greatly appreciated that management and personnel of Livestock Wing, Fisheries & Livestock Department were exceptionally cooperative and supportive in the completion of this report.

Importance of Artificial Insemination Training

Good productions as well as good reproduction are two essential elements for making the dairy farming/business a profitable one. A number of new reproductive technologies have been implemented for enhancing reproductive performances of dairy animals. Artificial insemination is one of the most important reproductive technologies implemented by the dairy industry. Artificial Insemination (AI) is very useful in a country like Pakistan where the availability of quality males (sires) is inadequate and has become the major hurdle in the way of dairy animals' development.

Artificial Insemination is the key tool to improve the breeding management; it is a modern applied biotechnological method in which sperm is collected from the male/bulls, processed, stored and manually introduced into the female reproductive tract at appropriate time for the purpose of conception. AI has become one of the most imperative techniques for the genetic improvement of farm animals since preferably the semen from genetically superior sires/males are used to inseminate the female animals artificially. It has been most extensively used for breeding dairy cattle and buffaloes. AI is the tool that possesses the potential of economic and rapid diffusion of elite males to a large number of females in a short duration of time over a large geographical area.

The Artificial Insemination & Pregnancy Diagnosis Training is design to achieve the following objects

- ◆ To produce technically trained hands to perform AI & PD services in Sindh province.
